The Environmental Protection Agency will hold a public meeting and hearing Wednesday to announce a proposed cleanup plan for a Superfund site in Attleboro.

The Walton and Lonsbury site was added as Superfund priority in 2013.

The defunct company operated a chromium plating plant on North Avenue and dumped cancer-causing chemicals into nearby wetlands. The plant was in operation from 1940 until 2007.

Cleanup has been going on for the past decade at a cost of about $15 million.

The EPA says the next phase will cost about $22 million.

A public information meeting will begin at 6 p.m. at the Attleboro Public Library, followed by a public hearing at 7:30 p.m.
